That should give you some insight about the software. We'll follow up with some commentary on the features, experience and performance of the software later today. Our goal is to offer you insights your peers can't provide.

The reason I say this is because of the new In-Place corrections such as healing, spot removal, colorise and others. I am happy to say that in my personal practice these have improved so much with version 11 that once again Digital Photography Review felt compelled to update. Aperture users though do not have these features if I understand right.
